Format of Dissertations and Theses in COLTECH

April 2020

Background

The University of Bamenda through the publication of its Thesis and Dissertation guide (UBa 2018) provides among others criteria uniform standards regarding formats of Dissertations and Theses and allows flexibility to satisfy accepted practices in different domains in each Establishment. In accordance with the above and to ensure adherence to technical matters in the preparation and submission of Dissertation and Theses for Higher degrees and Certificates, this guide shall serve for preparation of Dissertations and Theses for the degree programs in the College of Technology

1) Format of the End of Course (Undergraduate) and MSc Dissertations

The guide of the End of Course (Undergraduate) and Master's research work undertaken in partial fulfilment of the award of BSc and MSc degrees shall be the Monograph (standard) Dissertation format. The entire text shall be 60 – 80 pages for BSc and 80 – 150 pages for MSc dissertations depending on the nature of the topic and discipline. Otherwise, the College Scientific Committee (with external expert advice if necessary) will decide on the length of the Dissertation. The composition of Monograph (standard) Dissertation format shall be:

A) Preliminary section / pages

The elements of this section shall follow the order, each beginning on a new page:

- Cover page (Soft binding before defense and Hard or cardboard binding after defense)
- Title page
- Copyright page (Candidates hold copyright to their Dissertations and Theses regardless of whether they include a copyright page in them or register with the copyright office)
- Declaration (Used before and after defense)
- Certification (Used after defense)
- Acceptance page (required for postgraduate degrees) – this page confirms the Committee's approval and acceptance of the Dissertation or Thesis
- Abstract (separate page and no longer than one page, Keywords (maximum 6) at the base)
- Résumé (French translation of the Title on top followed by that of the Abstract)
- Dedication
- Acknowledgment
- Table of contents
- Lists of illustrations (Tables, figures,)
- List of abbreviations

For the Cover and Title pages: A title of at most 15 words describing the Dissertation shall be presented followed by the Candidate's names, Registration Number, previous qualification in brackets with each on a new separate line.

These elements must appear in upper and lower cases in at least font size 14 as follows : THE UNIVERSITY OF BAMENDA, COLLEGE OF TECHNOLOGY, DEPARTMENT OF ORIGIN, TITLE OF DISSERTATION, indication of type of work presented, FULL NAME OF AUTHOR (SURNAME BEFORE THE NAME), AREA OF SPECIALISATION, FULL NAME OF THE SUPERVISOR(S) FOLLOWED BY HIS/HER ACADEMIC TITLE UNDER THE NAME, MONTH and YEAR OF FINAL SUBMISSION.

The author's name, all in capital letters (upper case), must be identical on the Cover page, Title page, copyright page (if applicable) and other relevant section of the Dissertation.

B) Main Body of the Dissertation

Otherwise recommended by the College Scientific Committee the elements of this section shall be as follows :

Chapter 1 : An Introduction: Background, description of research problem area(s), Research / problem question(s) and Objectives (General and Specific), Rationale (justification, motivation and significance), Scope and Limitation of the study.

Chapter 2 : Literature Review: The literature review shall focus on justifying the defined objectives of the research through a critical appraisal of literature relevant to the research subject under consideration. This include searching available information sources to track down and review the latest knowledge, and assess its relevance, quality, controversy and gaps. The style of reviewing the retrieved information and their interpretation shall be purposeful and directed solely at establishing the premise for the research work.

Chapter 3 : Materials and Methods: Detailed description of research framework (design) and methods employed in the research work. The materials, where applicable such as chemicals, reagents, equipment and procedures, shall be cited and described appropriately. Only methods developed by the candidate shall be described in full. The candidate shall describe the study sites, all special precautions (including Ethical Considerations) taken in the course of applying the research methods and the statistical method(s) used in the analysis of the data

Chapter 4 : Results and Discussion: The collected / obtained data is properly presented (using charts, tables, figures and other illustrations as support). The candidate shall ensure that the results are carefully recorded and calculations verified. This is accompanied by statistical analysis of the collected / obtained data, a narrative of the main results, interpretations of the analysis and discussion of findings. The findings shall be discussed logically, systematically (in relation to previous studies , technical limitations of the study) and presented clearly.

Conclusion, Recommendation and Perspective: A conclusion of the relevant main findings is made based on careful analysis, synthesis and evaluation of findings. The recommendations shall be based upon the findings and conclusion as well as consideration of the discussed limitations of the study. The perspective of the study (suggestions for further research) of relevant areas or aspects that was not investigated shall be indicated or pointed out.

References : The APA (American Psychological Association) Style shall be the referencing style used (Ref – See Reference style below). The candidate shall ensure a “One-to-One” match between the references cited in the Dissertation (in-text) and the references listed in the reference section, organised in alphabetical order by author surname.

The following format shall be adopted if the name of an author is cited alone as well as with several other co-authors: Publications by the author alone arranged in chronological order, followed by publications with more than one author. Also, publications by the same author(s) in the same year shall be marked such as 2019a, 2019b, 2020a, 2020b, etc.

The candidate shall ensure that the spelling of names and years are the same in the document and the list of references

C) Appendices : This section shall appear at the end of the main body of the Dissertation (after the references) in chronological order as they are cited in the text. In the Appendix section, the Appendices shall be announced in the same chronological order as in the text or previous parts. It shall contain supplementary materials that are not essential parts of the text but which may be helpful in providing a more comprehensive understanding of the Dissertation (text). It may also be information that is cumbersome to be included in the main body of the Dissertation. Each Appendix shall start on a new page.

2) Format of the Ph.D Thesis

The type of Thesis submitted in partial fulfilment of the award of a Ph.D degree shall be the PhD thesis as a “Collection of works”, specifically Thesis by paper / Manuscripts. The entire document shall be 150 to 300 pages depending on the nature of topic and discipline. Otherwise, the College Scientific Committee (with external expert advice if necessary) will decide on the length of the Dissertation. The composition of the Thesis by papers / Manuscripts shall ensure capture and thoroughly interrogation of all the work done for the doctoral degree. The format shall be as follows:

A) Preliminary section:

This shall be as described for the MSc Dissertation above. The words “Master’s Degree” shall be replaced with the words “Doctor of Philosophy Degree” in all relevant sections of the Thesis.

B) Main Body of the Thesis by Paper / Manuscript

The candidate shall write a summary of his / her published and unpublished works, outlining his/her contributions in the case of joint publications. Otherwise recommended by the College Scientific Committee the elements of the main body of the summary shall be suitably subdivided as follows :

Papers / Manuscripts: List of published and unpublished works on a separate page at the beginning of the summary, with the statement: “The present Thesis is derived from the following works”. Full citation of the works including the names of all co-authors in the case of joint publications in the order of their appearance shall be required, outlining the contributions of each co-author in the work(s).

Chapter 1 : An Introduction: An Introduction: Background, description of research problem area(s), Research / problem question(s) and Objectives (General and Specific), Rationale (justification, motivation and significance), Scope and Limitation of the study..

Chapter 2 : Literature Review: The literature review shall focus on justifying the defined objectives of the research through a critical appraisal of literature relevant to the research subject under consideration. This includes searching available information sources to track down and review the latest knowledge, and assess its relevance, quality, controversy and gaps. The style of reviewing the retrieved information and their interpretation shall be purposeful and directed solely at establishing the premise for the research work.

Chapter 3 : Materials and Methods: This shall comprise the account of the methodology of the entire research or collection of manuscripts. The Materials and Methods as described for MSc Dissertation above is applicable for each Manuscript.

Chapter 4 : Manuscript

Chapter 5 : Manuscript

Chapter 6 : Manuscript

Chapter 7 : Manuscript

The Thesis by papers / manuscripts must comprise at least three (03) manuscripts submitted or in press in accredited journals (at least two (02) must constitute the original research with student as first (1st) author). Each Manuscript in the Thesis (presented as a chapter) shall be composed of an introduction, results, discussion and conclusion specific to the research problem and objectives of the manuscript. The introduction, results, discussion and conclusion as described for the MSc Dissertation above is applicable for each Manuscript. It shall be written in a scientific paper format.

However, the exact description of the location (eg: Chapter; Section and page) of the materials and methods employed for each manuscript shall be mentioned before presentation of the results.

Conclusion, Recommendations and Perspectives: A general conclusion of the relevant main findings is made based on careful analysis, synthesis and evaluation of findings of the entire study. The recommendations shall be based upon the findings and conclusion as well as consideration of the discussed limitations of the manuscripts. The perspective of the study (suggestions for further research) of relevant areas or aspects that was not investigated shall be indicated or pointed out.

References : This shall be as described for the MSc Dissertation above.

C) Appendices : This shall be as described for the MSc Dissertation above.

D) Curriculum vitae (CV): The candidate shall insert a CV (not exceeding two pages) after the references (or Appendices). The CV shall provide information on the academic and employment (where applicable) records of the candidate, his/her list of publications specifying those derived from the PhD Thesis.

E) Published papers : The PhD Thesis must be accompanied at the end by at least two (02) published papers emanating from the doctoral research / thesis in accredited journal(s), with the student as first (1st) author in at least one of the papers. One published and one accepted article may be considered. A published paradigm shifting review (originating from the review of the PhD research domain) is also acceptable.

The other manuscripts would have been submitted or in press and at an advanced stage of review supported by evidence of response(s) from Editor(s) / Reviewers that does not reject publication of the manuscripts. However, when the research is funded and with an embargo on publication of before patenting, the College Scientific Committee (with external expert advice if necessary) will decide on the scientific worth of the work.

The publications and submitted manuscripts should be in peer-reviewed journals recognised by the Directorate of Academic Affairs (DAcA) UBa.

3) Plagiarism and Falsification of Data: COLTECH expects students to follow the code of academic integrity of the University of Bamenda. They have the obligation to exhibit honesty and to respect the ethical standards of the academy as they carry out their academic assignments and must avoid plagiarism. Dissertations and Theses shall be checked for Plagiarism and violating students will be disciplined accordingly. Falsification of data shall be treated as a case of examination fraud.

- 4) Ethical issues and presentation style of Dissertations and Theses : A supervisor shall not write for a candidate nor shall the supervisor override the candidate's style by over-editing and prompting. The candidate shall ensure that the results are carefully recorded, calculations verified and Irrespective of the method used to reproduce the document, the text must appear on white A4 paper (21 x 29.7 cm) and justified. The document will be printed on both sides, 1.5 line spacing, with the font TIMES NEWS ROMAN; font size 12 and margins 2cm (Top) x 2cm (bottom) x 2 cm (Outside) x 4 cm (inside). The page number shall be at the bottom of the page, either in the centre or in lower right-hand corner from the edge. The preliminary part / aspect of the document shall be paginated in Roman numerals (i, ii; iii; iv; v,). The rest of the document shall be paginated in Arabic numerals (1, 2, 3, 4, 5,).

Each Chapter shall commence on a separate page beginning with the Chapter number and or Heading that shall be highlighted by putting in bold, larger font size (14) and centered. The other texts shall be justified and smaller font size (12). Tables and Figures shall be drawn in black ink and centralized within the text. Table captions shall be placed above tables at the left side. Figure captions shall be placed below figures tables at the left side. Every Chapter, table, figure and equation shall be numbered in Arabic numerals and chronologically. Photographs and maps shall be inserted in an appropriate manner using technologies which allow faithful representations of images. If a table or figure continues onto a subsequent page(s), include the following caption; Table xxx (continued) or Figure xxxxx (continued). The numbering of the chapters and sub-chapters shall be according to levels as follows :

Chapter 1 INTRODUCTION

- 1.2
- 1.3
 - 1.3.1
 - 1.3.2
- etc

The final document will have a cardboard cover-page, Title page, Copyright page, Declaration of originality of the study, Certification of Correction after defense and Acceptance page bearing the inscriptions in the annexes of this document. The colour for binding of ALL Dissertations and Theses in the College of Technology shall be DARK BLACK.

- 5) Reference style: The APA (American Psychological Association) Style shall be the referencing style used in all dissertations and Theses in the College of Technology.

✓ In-text Citation with APA

The APA style uses three kinds of information to be included in in-text citations. The author's last name and date (year) of publication must always appear, and these items must match exactly the corresponding entry in the references list. Eg (Awah-Ndukum, 2003); Awah-Ndukum et al., (2018),(Crockatt, 1995).

The third kind of information, the page number appears only in a citation to a direct quotation from the text. Eg: "The potentially contradictory nature of Moscow's priorities surfaced first in its policies towards East Germany and Yugoslavia," (Crockatt, 1995, p. 1). This shall not be applicable for Dissertations and Theses in the College of Technology.

✓ Reference List

Note that all second and third lines in the APA reference is indented (Ref – see Table below).

For journal article, all names of authors and type of material is listed : Author(s) of article (surname and initials), Year of publication, Title of manuscript, Full name of Journal, Volume number, (Issue number) and page numbers.

- 7) The of University of Bamenda. The Dissertations and Theses shall be maintained as part of the UBa Archives Collections and shall be open to candidates and researchers.

Dissertations and Theses are being classified as publications. Candidates hold copyright to their Dissertations and Theses regardless of whether they include a copyright page in them or register with the copyright office. Candidates will sign the UBa Library Dissertations and Theses consent form to protect their rights as authors of the research reports. However, candidates who do not wish that their works should be available for reasons such as pending patents, copyright agreements or future publication should seek advice from the Postgraduate School as to the restricted use or embargo.

- 8) Other Provisions : All postgraduate students shall consult the “Thesis and Dissertation Guide of The University of Bamenda” (UBa, 2018) for guidelines not defined in this document and keep track of modifications and amendments of the University of Bamenda Senate, through the administration of the College of Technology.

9) Some common issues to note with writing and presenting student theses

- a) Do not start a sentence with number in figures: This should be in letters.
- b) The heading of chapters should be caps, 14 points, bold, centred and on two lines.
- c) All other headings of sub-sections should be 12 points, bold and should be flush left.
- d) The abstract/resume should NOT contain undefined abbreviations in the abstract and NO references.
- e) Make sure you send an electronic version of your resume and abstract to me by email for review.
- f) All numbers and units must be separated with a space i.e. 5 mm and NOT 5mm.
- g) Use a spacing of 1.5 in the text except for tables, legends, and the reference section where the spacing should be 1.
- h) Make sure ALL references cited in the text are listed in the bibliography section and vice versa.
- i) Format the bibliography using hanging indent as shown below.
- j) All tables and figures MUST be referred to at least once in the text and do not start a chapter or sub-section with a table or figure.

- k) The legends of Tables should be placed above the table while for Figure, they should be placed below the table. Note that the source is NOT part of the legend of a table of Figure.
- l) The source of tables and figures are references and hence must contain the name of the author (s) following by the year. This reference must be included in the bibliography.
- m) All illustrations (photographs, graphs, maps, drawings etc.) are figures and should be numbered/called as such.
- n) The numbering of Tables and Figures should be in relation to each chapter eg Table 2.1, Figure 3.1 etc.
- o) Structure the Methodology and the Results and Discussion sections in line with the specific objectives as shown in the example table of contents below.
- p) Strive to use statistical analysis in your results to ensure your work is scientific especially when comparisons are made.
- q) Results and discussion and discussion section is the heart of a thesis. Make sure for each result you; a) present them, b) interpret them and finally c) discuss.
- r) Do not use two different methods to present the same information e.g. a table and a graph. Put only summary results in the Results & Discussion section preferably in graphical format. Raw data is general should be put in the appendix.
- s) Use Times Roman Fonts: For Section of chapter headings, use BOLD, CAPS, 14 POINTS; for Sub-section headings, Bold, 12 points, With First Letter of Main Words Capitalized, and leave a space before the start of the text. For sub headings under sub-sections e.g. 3.3.1 use Bold, 12 points with only the first letter of the first word capitalized. Leave no space before the start of your text. For all other text, use 12 points.
- t) DONOT go beyond three levels in the numbering i.e. more than say 1.1.1. Beyond three levels in the text, you can underline various items, or number them or use italics etc. to break down long sub-sections into parts.
- u) Make sure someone who has a mastery of the language in which your thesis is written reviews your work.
- v) Each specific objective must result in at least one conclusion.
- w) Recommendations should emanate from the work ONLY and be realistic.
- x) In the methodology section DONOT list materials and then later present the methodology. Materials used will naturally be referred to when the methodology is presented.
